Chapter 1 by อินกท ฟัลเคอร์

If I were in charge of the world,
There would be no homeless,
No wars, no poverty,
And no hungry.

If I were in charge of the world,
It would be a common sight to see dragons soaring through the sky,
Or to see one riding a hippocampus through the bay.

If I were in charge of the world,
You could do whatever you wanted.
You could play with the impossible.
You could work with magic in your hands,
Or you could fashion some high tech gear.
A teleporter, a time machine, or some power gear.

If I were in charge of the world,
The impossible would be possible,
The limits of your mind are the key.
You would be free from Fate's fickle hand,
And you could walk down the street with fictional characters, hand in hand

And imagination would run free

If I were in charge of the world,

Chapter 2 by Intellikat

If you were in charge of the world,

You would find the homeless more unruly than previously thought,
And wars, and poverty, and hunger
Would leave you despairing
As their endless begging hands beckoned.

If you were in charge of the world,
It apparently would be One rife with psychoactive drug use.

If you were in charge of the world,
I could do whatever I wanted,
And that would probably look Much as it does now.

If you were in charge of the world,
The impossible would be possible,
But the possible would also be impossible.
In some cosmic yin to yang,
I would attempt to free myself from Fate's fickle hand,
And as I walked down the street with fictional characters, hand in hand,
My imagination would run free,
Trampling others' dream without knowing I had done so.
If you were in charge of the world.

Chapter 3 by Dove Moon

If I were in charge of the world,
Scientists would be able to study Day in and day out without having to worry about money because there would be no money to worry about

If I were in charge of the world, there would be no need for tears for medical advances would we would be able to do as we pleased as long as our imaginations allowed it

If i were in charge of the world, no one would have to deal with shitty politicians there would be no horrible dictators and scandals in the news would be a thing of the past

If i were in charge of the world, religion would be up to you no matter where you live race would no longer matter genders would be treated equally and there would be no need to tease

If i were in charge of the world,
everyone's talents no matter how small would be praised
If i were in charge of the world
